1. Create a total of two layers in your movie. On the top layer create your text and make it the same color as your background color.
2. On the bottom layer, create the same text and make it a black color and bold. Line it up wherever you would like to place it on the screen. Place a frame at Frame#20 just so the shadow will show the whole movie. Lock this layer, you are finished with it.
3. Go back to your first layer and select all. This should highlight your text you typed. Now move it just a slight angle above your shadow like so:

4. On Frame#20 in the same layer (top layer) move your text even more at angle so you might have something that looks like this:

5. Lastly go back to Frame#1 and double-click the frame. Go to the tweening tab and select 'Motion'. Make sure 'Orient to Path Direction' is checked.
6. Test your movie, you should now have text that extrudes from your page.
